

Inclusion is NOT an Illusion

Including Students with Disabilities in the Arts

April 4, 2018

9:00 – 4:00 pm

Session# 353076

Fee: $50

(Fee waived for parents)

If inclusion is the goal for students with disabilities, then classes in the arts should be high priority. Join us as we learn effective inclusion strategies for all students.

Grant Manier, a young and award-winning eco-artist, living with autism and an advocate for special needs skills and environmental responsibility, will share his inclusion strategies and interventions with us.

In addition, two classroom teachers will present the successful strategies they utilize to include all students in art and theater arts.

Grant's art and books will be available for purchase following his presentation.
